

Sources of Evidence

Leaders need to ensure the validity of the inferences related to performance that are based on data, and the following are potential sources that focus on documenting strategies to support higher-fidelity implementation of curriculum and instruction:

EXPECTED EVIDENCE OF IMPACT	POSSIBLE SOURCES OF DATA
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>A. There are increases in student achievement over multiple years and student longitudinal growth.</li> <li>B. There is improvement of other district-identified outcomes and processes, such as equity, attendance and graduation rates.</li> <li>C. Leaders who are performing well on this standard have a sound knowledge of research-based instructional and assessment methods, including use of multiple forms of assessment to improve instruction and programs.</li> <li>D. Effective leaders actively share research-based strategies with their staff which directly impacts student achievement.</li> <li>E. Effective leaders use data to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of curricular implementation.</li> <li>F. Staff recognize the leader as someone who is capable of promoting the development of curricular, instructional, and assessment expertise.</li> <li>G. There is evidence that expertise shared by leadership among educators is impactful.</li> <li>H. Through the evaluation system leaders judge differences in instructional quality and provide useful feedback to educators in order to improve their instructional and assessment practices.</li> <li>I. Supervisors should see evidence of leaders coaching, mentoring, and supporting ineffective educators, and replacing them if improvement does not occur.</li> <li>J. Structures, such as Professional Learning Communities (PLCs) and school improvement teams, are in place, time is given to support teacher collaboration and learning, and there is evidence of shared leadership and emerging leaders among staff.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. State assessment results.</li> <li>2. State accountability results disaggregated according to targeted student groups.</li> <li>3. National assessments (e.g., ACT/SAT)</li> <li>4. Results from district and school level common assessments disaggregated according to targeted student groups.</li> <li>5. Strategic plan goals and priorities.</li> <li>6. Graduation rates.</li> <li>7. Attendance rates.</li> <li>8. Rates of disciplinary incidents to monitor student access to instruction.</li> <li>9. Participation and achievement in AP exams and dual and concurrent enrollment.</li> <li>10. Percentage of students participating in extra-curricular or co-curricular activities.</li> <li>11. Follow-up studies of students' success in post-secondary pursuits.</li> <li>12. Collaboration with community college and University of Wyoming on remediation rates.</li> <li>13. Evidence of monitoring student assessment and grading practices to ensure that assessments support meaningful learning.</li> <li>14. Evidence of high-quality instruction from walk-through visits or other types of observation.</li> <li>15. Surveys/interviews of staff members regarding their views and evidence of instructional/assessment leadership.</li> <li>16. Evidence of data dissemination to stakeholders.</li> <li>17. Principal feedback.</li> <li>18. Evidence of use of tools and processes for monitoring instruction.</li> </ul>

- K. Induction and professional development systems rely on research-based professional development approaches.
- L. Research-based professional development approaches translate into deeper understanding on the part of the staff, and eventually more effective practices and improved student outcomes.
- M. Systems are in place to ensure appropriate time and resources to implement, monitor, and evaluate new and existing programs as part of the continuous improvement process that includes reporting to stakeholders.
- N. There is no doubt that an effective leader establishes and communicates a positive vision for the school or district.
- O. The leader encourages and inspires others to higher levels of performance, commitment, teamwork, and motivation.
- P. The effective leader has systems in place to ensure the safety of the students and staff from external as well as internal (e.g., bullying) threats to safety.
- Q. There is evidence that all students and staff feel valued and respected.
- R. High expectations are established by the leader and shared among all members of the school community.
- S. There is evidence that the mission and vision are reviewed and adjusted as appropriate.
- T. The leader allocates resources to support the highest priority work of the school/district, with a schedule that strengthens and protects core instructional time to maximize student learning.
- U. There is evidence the leader manages the logistical and data demands of the school's/district's various operational and instructional systems (e.g., evaluation, assessment, fiscal) as well as legal and contractual agreements and records.
- V. There is alignment between allocation of resources, including technology, and school/district vision, mission, and goals.
- W. Policies are in place that protect the rights and confidentiality of students and staff.
- X. The leader is respected and seen as being fair and just by staff, students, and the community.

- 19. Tactical expenditures of general funds and supplemental federal funds targeted to research-based successful interventions that improve student growth.
- 20. Documentation of the evaluations and feedback provided to a range of educators, including evidence upon which feedback is based.
- 21. Data that provides evidence of follow-up and monitoring by the leader to ensure successful actions.
- 22. Data from calibration activities demonstrating the leader's ability to judge instructional quality.
- 23. Data that demonstrates adherence to the complete evaluation cycle.
- 24. The school or district professional development plan and other support strategies that clearly reflect an understanding of adult learning and use of staff evaluation data.
- 25. Plans and documentation of meetings and other approaches for building expertise among staff.
- 26. School or district improvement plan aligned to the school/district priorities.
- 27. Documentation that professional development based on evaluation results had a meaningful effect on leader or teacher practice and/or student performance.
- 28. Observations and/or documentation of the leader's use of high quality data and appropriate analyses to drive continuous improvement.
- 29. Observations of the leader conducting activities that foster adult learning in the school or district, such as conducting classroom observations or pre/post evaluation interviews.
- 30. Documentation that the leader uses survey data related to perceptions of the development and support of a learning organization to improve performance at the school/district.
- 31. Documentation of the educator evaluation schedule and a clear description of the evaluation processes used in the school.
- 32. Evidence of celebrations of effective teams and interventions for less effective teams.
- 33. Schedules or policies that support the implementation of collaborative structures.
- 34. Observations about the ways in which the leader incorporates the vision and mission when communicating about various programs.
- 35. Stakeholder (e.g. students, staff, and parents) survey and interview results about school/district climate including the degree to which all students are

Y. Staff and students demonstrate ethical, consistent, and fair behavior. Z. The leader builds coherence between the work of the school, district, and state as a whole, promoting a sense of being a critical part of a larger system. AA. The effective leader resolves conflicts in a fair and equitable way. BB. Effective leaders are seen and known by the community as respected advocates for the school/district and its staff, students, and community. CC. Effective leaders use multiple methods of communication and dissemination to engage the larger community and ensure that all parents have opportunities to learn about their students' education. DD. The leader ensures the school/district is a resource for families and the community. EE. The leader also recognizes and respects the goals and aspirations of diverse family and community groups. FF. The leader seeks out opportunities to collaborate with the community and to gather improvement ideas.	held to high expectations and the leader fosters a culture where students and staff feel safe, valued and respected. 36. Documentation of how key decisions are made in support of the vision/mission. 37. Records of the infractions of student conduct codes and the consequences. 38. The number and trend in reported bullying and harassment incidents. 39. Exit surveys of staff/students/families that leave the school/district, documenting their experiences and opinions. 40. The school's documented plans to address the needs of those most at risk for school failure including monitoring course failures, truancy/absenteeism, and at-risk behavior. 41. Documentation of teacher attendance patterns. 42. Artifacts such as schedules, teacher assignments, and other day-to-day actions reflecting concerns about social justice and equity of access to educational opportunities. 43. Evidence of plans and activities to address bullying and other school discipline concerns 44. The school/district improvement plan (use for evidence of research base for current, past, and future initiatives and connections among them). 45. Budget documents demonstrating alignment with district/school-level goals and fiscal responsibility. 46. Staff survey and interview responses specifically about school/district management of policies, processes, and procedures. 47. Management plans and documents. 48. Documentation of an up-to-date emergency response system and other safety systems.
